The most difficult thing in life is to find yourself. Everyone wants to find a hobby in two bills or master any kind of art on 5 points and be the best in this matter. People regard their failures in various matters as trafficking and the complete absence of talent. But do not forget that the world is rich in various activities (science, sports, culture, social activities, politics) and everyone can find a lesson in the shower. Unsuccessful experience will surely instruct you true, i.e. It will tell that it is time to change something or, on the contrary, to show patience and make the last jerk to prove to myself that there are no boundaries in front of you.
